Life Science Academy (LSA) Training Centre, Kuwait City, Kuwait, 17-18 February 2017

Faculty: Vincenzo Li Marzi, Daa Rizk, Maurizio Serati

SCIENTIFIC RATIONALE

Pelvic floor dysfunctions are prevalent conditions in Kuwait. Urodynamic investigations are an integral component of the management of these disorders. However, there is limited training of health care professionals in the techniques, indications and performance of urodynamic investigations in Kuwait. This course is expected to improve the education and training of health care providers involved in the care of pelvic floor dysfunctions with a consequent improvement in the diagnosis and management of these disorders.
